Content and Rights Acknowledgement

Just In Reality, LLC, operating Grand Theft Clipping. Version 1.3, effective November 17, 2026.

What this is

This is the statement you make to Just In Reality, LLC when you tick the second box at sign-up, and again each time you start a job in Grand Theft Clipping. It is part of the Terms of Service. If any part of it is not true for a piece of footage, do not upload or link that footage.

1. The footage is mine to use

I recorded the footage myself, or I have the consent of its owner to copy it, edit it, and publish clips made from it.

2. I own my clips. You do not.

Just In Reality, LLC does not own, and does not claim, my footage or the clips made from it. They stay mine, subject to the rights of the game publisher, the streamer and anyone else with rights in them, and subject to the permissions I give Just In Reality, LLC in section 7 of the Terms of Service.

3. I am the one managing these videos

I decide what is clipped, and what I post on my own accounts, where and when. Just In Reality, LLC gives me a tool. It does not review or approve my clips before I get them, and it does not post to my accounts.

4. You may repost my clips on your channels

On every plan, Just In Reality, LLC may copy, edit, publish and promote the clips I make with Grand Theft Clipping on the channels it runs, with credit to my public handle (if I have set one) and to the streamer. I am not paid for this. There is no setting to turn it off.

I confirm that I hold the rights needed to allow this, including the streamer's permission where a clip comes from someone else's broadcast. Just In Reality, LLC may keep its own copy of those clips for longer than my plan keeps them, and my public handle is shown in the credit.

5. People in the footage

I have any consent I need from people who appear or speak in the footage.

6. Other people's streams

If the footage is another person's broadcast, I have that streamer's permission to clip and post it. If the streamer is in the Streamer Network, I will follow the conditions shown on their page, including how to credit them. A streamer being listed in the directory is not permission.

7. Publisher and platform rules

I will follow the rules of the game publisher, of the platform the footage came from, and of every platform I post to, including their rules on spoilers, music, monetisation and re-use of content.

8. No responsibility on your side

Just In Reality, LLC and Grand Theft Clipping take no responsibility for my footage, my clips, or anything that happens after I download, share or post them. That includes copyright claims, takedowns, strikes, loss of monetisation, account restrictions or bans, and disputes with streamers, publishers, platforms, campaigns or anyone else.

9. I cover claims about my content

If someone brings a claim against Just In Reality, LLC because of my footage, my clips, what I posted, or a clip of mine that Just In Reality, LLC reposted, I will cover the resulting losses and costs, as set out in the Terms of Service.

10. Suggestions are only suggestions

Captions, titles, hashtags and warnings are generated automatically and may be wrong. I will check them before I post.

11. Records and signature

I understand that Just In Reality, LLC records each confirmation I give, with the date, time and IP address, and that ticking the box and typing my name is my electronic signature.