Privacy Policy

Just In Reality, LLC, operating Grand Theft Clipping. Version 1.3, effective November 17, 2026.

1. Who we are

Just In Reality, LLC operates Grand Theft Clipping (the "Service") and is responsible for the personal information described in this policy. "Grand Theft Clipping" and "Rich Money Minds" are names Just In Reality, LLC uses. The Service is run from the United States.

2. What we collect

From you, when you use the Service:

- Account details: your name, your email address, and a salted hash of your password. We never store the password itself.
- Agreement records: the version of the terms you accepted, when, the name you typed, and the IP address and browser used.
- Your content: the videos you upload or link, and the clips, covers and captions made from them.
- Rights confirmations: the date and time of each confirmation you give when you start a job.
- Usage: how many minutes of footage you have processed, your jobs and their status, the streamers you follow, and your points, rank and streak.
- An optional public handle, if you choose one.
- Connected channels, if you connect one: the channel's id, name and handle; an encrypted sign-in token that lets us upload to that channel when you ask; the links and ids of the videos you post through the Service; and the view, like and comment counts the platform reports for those videos.
- Messages you send us.

Automatically:

- Basic server logs kept by us and our hosting provider, such as IP address, browser type, pages requested and the time.
- One sign-in cookie (see section 6).

From our payment processor: when you subscribe, Stripe tells us your plan, its status and renewal dates, and gives us a customer reference. We never see or store your card number.

3. Public streamer information

The streamer directory shows information that streamers have already made public on their channels: channel name, link, profile image, short description, whether they are live, and public statistics. We collect it from the platforms' public pages and official interfaces.

If you apply to join the Streamer Network we also keep the contact name and email you give us, your credit wording and your application record. Contact details are never shown publicly. To correct or remove a listing, email support@grandtheftclipping.com.

4. How we use information

We use the information above to:

- create and secure your account and keep you signed in;
- process your footage and make your clips;
- meter your plan and take payment;
- keep evidence of what was agreed and confirmed;
- show the leaderboard and the streamer directory;
- post a clip to a channel you connected, when you press the button, and show you how those posts are doing;
- repost clips made with the Service on the channels we run, with credit, as the Terms of Service allow;
- respond to you, including copyright notices and removal requests;
- prevent abuse and fix problems; and
- meet our legal obligations.

We do not sell your personal information and we do not build advertising profiles. A clip we repost carries a credit, and the credit shows your public handle if you have set one.

Information we receive from Google's services about a channel you connect is used only to provide the posting and view-count features you can see in the Service. Our use of it follows the Google API Services User Data Policy (https://developers.google.com/terms/api-services-user-data-policy), including its Limited Use requirements: we do not sell it, we do not use it for advertising, we do not combine one user's channel figures with another's, and people at Just In Reality, LLC do not read it except with your permission, for security, or where the law requires.

5. AI processing

To write titles, captions and warnings, a few still frames from each clip, and any note you typed about the footage, are sent to our AI provider, Anthropic. The full video is not sent. Anthropic handles that data under its own commercial terms and privacy policy.

We do not use your footage to train AI models.

6. Cookies

The Service sets one cookie, which keeps you signed in. It is strictly necessary and is not used for tracking. We do not use advertising or analytics cookies. When you pay, Stripe's own pages set the cookies Stripe needs to process the payment and prevent fraud.

7. Who we share with

We do not sell your personal information, and we do not share it for cross-context behavioural advertising. We share it only with:

- our hosting provider, which stores the Service's data and files;
- Stripe, for payments;
- Anthropic, for caption writing, as described in section 5;

- an email delivery provider, if we send you account emails;
- the social platforms where we run channels, such as YouTube, which receive the clips we repost together with the credit text;
- YouTube, when you connect a channel or post to it: the Service uses YouTube API Services, and Google receives the video with the title, description and visibility you chose. Google's handling of your information is described in the Google Privacy Policy (http://www.google.com/policies/privacy);
- professional advisers, and a buyer or successor if the business is sold or reorganised; and
- courts, regulators or others where the law requires it or to protect rights and safety.

If you choose a public handle, it is shown publicly in the credit on any clip of yours that we repost. If you also switch the leaderboard option on, your handle, rank and weekly points are public. Your email and your real name are never shown.

8. How long we keep things

- Uploaded source video: deleted as soon as its job finishes. An upload that is never used is deleted after about 2 hours.
- Clips, covers and captions: 3 days on Free, 30 days on Pro, 60 days on Crew, then deleted. You can delete a video and its clips yourself at any time.
- Copies of clips chosen for our channels: kept apart from your own files, and for longer than your plan keeps your clips. A copy that is not posted is deleted after about 14 days. A copy that is posted is kept for about 30 days after posting. The post itself stays on the platform until it is taken down.
- Connected channels: the encrypted sign-in is kept until you disconnect the channel. View counts are refreshed about once an hour; counts that cannot be refreshed for 30 days are deleted, and so is a channel whose access was removed at Google and not restored in that time.
- Account details and usage: for as long as your account is open.
- Agreement records, rights confirmations, billing records and security logs: for as long as needed to show what was agreed, meet tax and accounting rules, and deal with disputes, which can be several years after an account is closed.

9. Security

Passwords are stored only as salted hashes. Sign-in tokens are stored only as hashes. The sign-ins for connected channels are encrypted before they are stored. Connections to the Service are encrypted in transit. Files are private to the account that made them. No system is perfectly secure, so we cannot guarantee security, and you should use a strong, unique password.

10. Your choices and rights

You can see your plan, usage and agreement record on your account page, and delete any video and its clips yourself. To see, correct, export or delete your account and personal information, email support@grandtheftclipping.com from the address on your account. We will answer within the time the law requires and will not treat you differently for asking.

Deleting a video removes your files from the Service. It does not remove a repost that is already published on one of our channels. To ask for a repost to be taken down, email us or use the Copyright and DMCA

Policy.

Connected channels: press Disconnect on your account page and we withdraw our access at Google, delete our copy of the sign-in and delete the view counts we held for that channel, straight away. You can also remove our access on Google's security settings page (https://security.google.com/settings/security/permissions). To have anything else we hold about a connected channel deleted, email support@grandtheftclipping.com; we do it within 7 days.

Depending on where you live, you may have further rights under local law, such as the right to appeal a decision or to complain to a regulator. We honour those rights where they apply.

11. People outside the United States

The Service is operated in the United States and your information is processed there. If you use the Service from another country, you understand that your information is transferred to and processed in the United States, where privacy laws may differ from those where you live.

12. Children

The Service is for people aged 18 and over. We do not knowingly collect information from anyone under 18. If you believe a child has given us information, email support@grandtheftclipping.com and we will delete it.

13. Changes

If we change this policy in a way that matters, we will tell you by email or in the Service before the change takes effect. The version and date at the top show when it was last updated.
